

Chapter 2

1. During your course you will learn:

- a. Only about your chosen field of nursing
- *b. Field-specific and generic knowledge and skills
- c. About your chosen field and one other field
- d. About the importance of caring for children

2. The recurrent issues relating to the poor care of patients with learning disabilities include:

- a. Signs and symptoms of illness attributed to learning disabilities rather than physical illness
- b. Poor communication with people with learning disabilities
- c. Treatment options influenced by negative views about the quality of life of individuals with learning disabilities
- *d. All the above

3. When you see the term 'learning disabilities' you:

- a. Can assume the individual will need help with washing and dressing
- *b. Should not make assumptions
- c. Should assume that the individual will not be able to understand information about their healthcare
- d. Will know that the individual requires a high level of support to meet their needs

4. During your nursing course it is important that you:

- a. Concentrate on what you are being taught
- b. Turn your mobile phone off as soon as you enter class
- c. Respect those who are teaching you
- *d. All of the above

5. The three senses we use to process information are:

- *a. Visual, auditory and kinaesthetic
- b. Visual, smell and kinaesthetic
- c. Visual, auditory and taste
- d. Visual, smell and taste

6. Patients should be informed that the information they share with you:

- a. Is confidential
- b. May be shared with other members of the healthcare team if it is important in their care
- c. May be disclosed to others if there is risk of harm occurring
- *d. All the above